Scoring

31. Server announces score. The server must announce the game score before the first point of a game and the point score before each subsequent point of the game.

32. Disputes. Disputes over the score must be resolved by the using of the following methods:

- Count all points and games agreed and replay the disputed points or games:
 - Toss a coin to select the court, server, point
 - Play from a score mutually agreeable
 - Spin a racket or toss a coin.

Rules found on page 41 of USTA Friend at Court

The server states that the score is 40-15. The receiver states that the score is 30-30. The players agree on who won every point except the second point. What should they do?

They should replay the second point from the advantage court. If the server wins the point, the score becomes 40-15; if the receiver wins the point, the score becomes 30-30. The next point is played from the deuce court. (Code 32)
